RESPONSE: See Attachment 6a b. The information is proprietary and is being provided subject to the appropriate nondisclosure agreement.

REQUEST: Provide the number of EELs in service at the end of the most recent quarter for which such information is available, stated separately for:

- a. EELs comprised of analog loops that are connected to analog transport;
- b. EELs comprised of analog loops that are multiplexed onto higher speed (DS-1 or higher) transport;
- c. EELs comprised of DS-1 loops that are connected to DS-1 transport;
- d. EELs comprised of DS-1 loops that are multiplexed onto DS-3 or higher transport.

RESPONSE: The number of EELs in service in BellSouth's nine-state region at the end of the most recent quarter (3Q03) for which such information is available, stated separately for:

- a. 261 EELs comprised of analog loops that are connected to analog transport;
- b. 11 EELs comprised of analog loops that are multiplexed onto higher speed (DS-1 or higher) transport;
- c. 23,062 EELs comprised of DS-1 loops that are connected to DS-1 transport; and
- d. 5,650 EELs comprised of DS-1 loops that are multiplexed onto DS-3 or higher transport.

REQUEST: For the last quarter for which such information is available, provide by end-office (by applicable CLLI code):

- a. The CLLI of the tandem switch on which the end-office homes;
- b. For the same period as the information provided in the 8(b), please indicate whether you have enough end office and tandem switch ports available for each wire center to handle the traffic if all UNE-P lines were moved to CLEC switches.

RESPONSE: a. BellSouth objected to this request which is identical to AT&T's First Set of Interrogatories, Item No. 60 on the grounds that it is unduly burdensome. See BellSouth's response to AT&T's First Set of Interrogatories Item No. 60 in Kentucky Case No. 2003-00379.

b. If the UNE-P traffic was moved to UNE-L, there would be little impact on the overall amount of BellSouth's tandem network/interconnection trunks, assuming that the CLECs size their trunk groups using standard trunk traffic engineering methods. This would include establishing trunk groups to the end offices where there is sufficient traffic to justify a trunk group.

The traffic being generated on the UNE-P lines is currently being handled on the BellSouth trunk network. If the traffic were moved to UNE-L/CLEC switch, the demand on BellSouth's interoffice network would decrease. However, there would be a similar increase on trunks to the CLECs' networks.

For example, a CLEC UNE-P end user call that went from a BellSouth end office to another BellSouth end office would, under UNE-L, go from the CLEC switch to the BellSouth end office. Traffic would decrease on the trunk group from the BellSouth end office to the other BellSouth end office. However, traffic would increase on the trunk group from the CLEC switch to the other BellSouth end office

RESPONSE (Cont'd):

If the shift from UNE-P to UNE-L is done on a gradual basis, it would minimize costs and service problems for both the CLEC and BellSouth. As the traffic shifted, BellSouth would disconnect the excess quantities from its trunk groups. This, in turn, would provide the capacity to add to the CLEC trunk groups.

CompSouth's 1st Interrogatories
October 27, 2003
Item No. 9

REQUEST: Provide the number of EEL local connections, in DS-1 equivalents, by wire center for each quarter since the fourth quarter of 1999.

RESPONSE: BellSouth objected to this request which is identical to AT&T's First Set of Interrogatories, Item No. 61 on the grounds that it is unduly burdensome. See BellSouth's response to AT&T's First Set of Interrogatories Item No. 61 in Kentucky Case No. 2003-00379.

REQUEST: With regard to business customers using 24 or fewer analog lines, identify the number of customer locations by the number of switched local service lines in the following table:

Lines	Number of Customer Locations

RESPONSE: Information concerning the total number of business customers using 24 or fewer access lines by customer location is contained in Attachment 10. BellSouth does not track switched access lines as "analog" or "digital." This information is proprietary and is being provided subject to the appropriate non-disclosure agreement.

REQUEST: For the last quarter for which such information is available, provide by end-office (by applicable CLLI code):

- a. The CLLI of the tandem switch on which the end-office homes;
- b. The number of shared transport (i.e., transport used in conjunction with the unbundled local switching) minutes originating from the end-office;
- c. The number of shared transport minutes terminating to the end-office.

RESPONSE: a. See BellSouth's response to Interrogatory No. 8(a). b.-c. BellSouth objects to this request on the grounds that it is overly broad and unduly burdensome since BellSouth does not have ready access to shared transport minutes data. To obtain an answer, BellSouth would have to analyze each end office and determine how many UNE-Ps there are in that end office. A percentage would be calculated and applied to all of the trunk groups, assuming that the UNE-P call distribution is homogenous across the BellSouth trunk network in that end office.

To do the work manually would require many hours of time just to download the traffic data. For example, in the Orlando Sand Lake end office, it took 2 hours and 27 minutes to download traffic data for 96 trunk groups for a 7 day period. That example times 13 weeks in a quarter would equal 32 hours of work just for one end office. Since the aforementioned amount of time does not include applying formulas in the spreadsheet to analyze the data for validity and then summing the measurements, BellSouth estimates that time to be comparable to downloading the data.

BellSouth also estimated the cost to have software developed to retrieve the requested data. That cost is estimated to be $90,000 and take a month or more to implement.

REQUEST: For the same period as the information provided in the previous question, please provide:

- a. The total number of interconnection trunks and interconnection minutes at each tandem, separated between:
 - i. Originating trunks and the minutes carried by those trunks;
 - ii. Terminating trunks and the minutes carried by those trunks;
 - iii. Two-way trunks and the minutes carried by those trunks.
- b. The total number of interconnection trunks and interconnection minutes at each end-office (by applicable CLLI code), separated between:
 - i. Originating trunks and the minutes carried by those trunks;
 - ii. Terminating trunks and the minutes carried by those trunks;
 - iii. Two-way trunks and the minutes carried by those trunks.
- c. The number of additional trunk terminations available on each tandem;
- d. The number of additional trunk terminations available on each end office.

RESPONSE: a.- b. See BellSouth's response to Interrogatory No. 11 for details.
c.- d. BellSouth objected to this request which is identical to AT&T's First Set of Interrogatories, Item No. 64 on the grounds that it is unduly burdensome. See BellSouth's response to AT&T's First Set of Interrogatories Item No. 64 in Kentucky Case No. 2003-00379.

REQUEST: Provide the number of loops, by calendar year and by central office (by applicable CLLI code), that are served by:

- a. IDLC arrangements;
- b. NGDLC arrangements;
- c. UDLC arrangements;
- d. Of the IDLC loops, please state how many loops are transferable to universal digital loop carrier (UDLC) without additional construction.

RESPONSE: a.- c. BellSouth objected to this request which is identical to AT&T's First Set of Interrogatories, Item No. 65 on the grounds that it is unduly burdensome. See BellSouth's response to AT&T's First Set of Interrogatories Item No. 65 in Kentucky Case No. 2003-00379.

- d. BellSouth is unable to develop a response to this request without more information such as CLEC market share assumptions for specific central offices such that a route-by-route analysis can be completed.

REQUEST: Provide a forecast for the next five years, or the longest available forecast if a five-year forecast is not available, identifying the number of loops that you intend to serve via:

- a. IDLC loop arrangements;
- b. NGDLC loop arrangements;

RESPONSE: See BellSouth's response to Interrogatory No. 13. BellSouth does not develop forecasts by technology type. Forecasts are developed by service type.

REQUEST: Provide the number, for the most recent time period for which data is available, of UNE loops served by IDLC and NGDLC arrangements that have been provided to a CLEC:

- a. With unbundled local switching;
- b. Without unbundled local switching.

RESPONSE: BellSouth objected to this request which is identical to AT&T's First Set of Interrogatories, Item No. 67 on the grounds that it is unduly burdensome. See BellSouth's response to AT&T's First Set of Interrogatories Item No. 67 in Kentucky Case No. 2003-00379.

REQUEST: Please state the applicable charges, if any, and the amount of time it takes to transfer a customer's IDLC loop to

- a. UDLC
- b. Spare copper.

RESPONSE: The existing costs and applicable charges for UNE voice grade or digital loops below DS1 already include work times and activities required to provision the loop on UDLC or copper (assuming facilities are available).

REQUEST: During the past 5 years, has BellSouth ever added processor capacity or peripheral equipment to one or more of its local switches due to;

- a. Increased usage;
- b. Exhaust of the number of end-user lines that could be connected to the switch.

RESPONSE: a. Yes. BellSouth has added processor capacity and peripheral equipment due to increased usage in its local switches in the past five years.

- b. Yes. BellSouth has added peripheral equipment due to the exhaust of the number of end-user lines that could be connected to its local switches in the past five years.

REQUEST: If the answer to either part of the previous question above is yes, please identify:

- a. The nature of the upgrade performed;
- b. Whether BellSouth had other end-office switches within a 15-mile radius with capacity to handle additional lines;
- c. If the answer to b. is yes, whether BellSouth considered off-loading subscriber lines from the switch requiring the upgrade, and serving those lines from a different local switch. If BellSouth did not consider doing so, why not?

RESPONSE: a. BellSouth's Switch Capacity Management group monitors all usage and capacity limiting items within BellSouth's switch network. The two primary reasons for adding equipment are exhaust of talking channels (usage based exhaust) and exhaust of one of the various types of terminations on the switch. Capacity is added proactively based on usage and/or termination requirements.

Over the past five years there have been substantial processor upgrades, notably the upgrade of the 5ESS processor to the 3B21, the XA-Core processor in some of BellSouth's larger DMS switches and the addition of processor elements as well as the replacement of the older processors in BellSouth's EWSD switches.

Peripheral additions include analog lines, TR-08 terminations, GR-303 terminations, BRI lines, PRIs and trunks. The utilization of each of these components is monitored and additional capacity is added as required. There have been hundreds of capacity additions to BellSouth's switches in the past five years.

There are also additional traffic sensitive components that vary by switch type (recorded announcements, metallic testing equipment, memory, etc.). These are monitored by Capacity Management and supplemented based on current utilization and projected requirements.

RESPONSE (Cont'd):

- b. Given the density of BellSouth's switches, it is likely that there was capacity in switches within a 15-mile radius in some of the projects described in (a) above.
- c. BellSouth did not consider off-loading subscriber lines from the switch requiring capacity to a different local switch. This is not a strategy that has been pursued in managing BellSouth's switch network. The design of BellSouth's network is based on wire center boundaries and there are no mechanisms in place for transporting a large number of lines between switches.
