Re: CompSouth v. AT&T Tennessee
Docket No. 13-00157

Dear Chairman Allison:

To the best of AT&T's knowledge, no CompSouth member has ever purchased any of the AT&T Tennessee intrastate special access term plans at issue in CompSouth's complaint. Nevertheless, to resolve the complaint AT&T Tennessee will permit any CompSouth member to obtain, under an Individual Case Basis (ICB) agreement, any of the special access term plans at issue under the same prices, terms and conditions that existed immediately prior to AT&T Tennessee's elimination of those plans. ICB arrangements based on those prices, terms and conditions will remain available until either (a) the FCC resolves issues pending before it regarding AT&T's corresponding interstate special access term plans and AT&T takes action to effectuate that outcome in Tennessee, or (b) whether or not the FCC acts, AT&T Tennessee makes a subsequent filing to end or amend CompSouth's access to such ICB arrangements and either (i) CompSouth does not oppose that subsequent filing within the time period allowed by the TRA's rules, or (ii) CompSouth opposes in a timely fashion but the TRA nevertheless approves or otherwise permits AT&T's action.

Given that CompSouth will now be able to obtain ICB arrangements as described above, the issues raised by CompSouth's complaint are now moot. It is AT&T Tennessee's understanding that CompSouth will be withdrawing its complaint.

Very truly yours,

Robert Culpepper
