Lisa – Update. We did just receive the Bond in this afternoon's mail. I do feel we will still need the extension because of the bond issue.

Thanks!

Deb

Lisa – Travelers had a huge problem with this in their billing system and somehow tied the Bond INdigital renewed to another client's account. They had corrected it and posted the payment when they issued the Rescind Notice that I had forwarded to you. Apparently, the billing system still kicked it out when after they untied the two accounts which caused them to somehow lose documentation of the payment even though we have a receipt. They are trying to get this all corrected and we are waiting to hear back from our Rep there later today. I was going to forward their email explaining this to you but it has a disclaimer on forwarding attached.

We still have not received the Bond you mailed back to us yet, but it may come in this afternoon's mail. At this point, I believe we need to request another extension to our Docket for at least another week, so that all of this can get resolved and we can get you the documentation.

Will this email suffice or do I need to send another type of request for the extension?

Please advise.

Thanks!
